

Today
A Coolidge goodbye.
Royal Sign Manual.
Watch Your Heart.
Chicago, Florida, Closser.

By Arthur Brisbane
President Coolidge's message to Congress asks for 15 cruisers, explaining that a navy is no more to the Kellogg Peace pact. That's true, and it wouldn't make much difference if it were a bar. A navy is a reality. A peace pact is a piece of paper.

Those that prattle about peace when there is no safe peace except in protection, should consider the 60,000,000 Japanese, living beside more than 500,000,000 Chinese.

Chinese as a race are probably safer than the Japanese.

But Japan dominates China and stands an equal among the nations. China stands nowhere. The Japanese know how to protect themselves; desiring peace, they are ready to fight, if necessary.

President Coolidge says this country is not "militaristic or imperialistic."

Certainly not, but it is an empire, a good solid one, all tied together, from the northwestern tip of Alaska to the southeastern tip of Florida.

And it means to be ready for unpleasant approaches by anybody that is militaristic.

The President puts it mildly when he tells Congress "the country can regard the present with satisfaction and anticipate the future with optimism."

The Gauls told Alexander that the only thing they feared was that the sky might fall on the Gauls.

The only thing Americans have to fear is their own foolishness.

Another gentleman, with no official title, has a message for Congress. His name is old Mr. Power Lobby, and his boss is that important person, the power trust.

His message to Congress is not printed, so advance copy sent to editors. But the public will know, by watching Congress how effective and how "convincing" the message is.

Watch your heart, especially if you have responsibilities and worries, before it is too late.

Five doctors are watching King George's heart now, too late, perhaps. His temperature is low, congestion in the lungs has subsided. But doctors warn against optimism, because that weak heart.

Metaphorically, as George said, it is "George goes everything now."

Physically, it is "Heart gone, everything gone."

Figures, unfortunately, reveal the gravity of King George's illness. Yesterday it cost 30 percent to insure the King's life over Christmas.

The King's doctors, first two, then three, then four, now number five in attendance. Three have titles of nobility which enable them to leave off the letters M. D. In Britain, to this day, doctors have little social standing. As for the dentist, he has less than none.

The "royal sign manual," which means the King's signature, is necessary on many documents, and the King is too ill to sign papers. A royal commission assisting certain of his powers will include the Queen, the Duke of York, Premier MacDonald, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Chancellor.

These dignitaries make up the functioning machinery of the empire. Its backbone is the House of Commons, its ornamental ruff, the House of Lords.

The new "Perry cutoff" reduces traveling time between Chicago and Tampa, Florida, by 8 hours. The first train went over the cutoff yesterday.

Good news for Florida, better news for Chicago.

The real cutoff will be the airplane, enabling Chicago to send one weekend in Florida, the next in California, with plenty of time for business in between.

Vice-President Byrd of the American Petroleum Institute urges a national program for rationalization of the oil industry.

The general public that owns 15,000,000 automobiles is more interested than oil producers in conservation of the oil supply. The oil industry, once called "a monopoly," is now intensely and destructively competitive. The Government should control that.

Goldman Sachs starts a $100,000,000 trading corporation, inviting the public to buy shares. Once you would have said, "What a fantastic company!" Now you say, "Nice little company, perhaps it will grow."

We get used to big things.

PRESIDENT WARNS: 'NO TAX CUT'

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Voicing again his plea for governmental economy, President Coolidge submitted to Congress today a budget for the fiscal year 1930, calling for expenditures of $3,750,713,647.

This would leave in the Treasury an estimated $60,576,181 surplus, but the President declared this offered an immediate prospect for further tax cuts.

Giving an account also of the progress of fiscal affairs for the current year, the President said the deficit for 1929 "is not so bright."

Referring to budget estimates, he pointed a surplus of $33,549,282 at the close of this fiscal year next June 30, Mr. Coolidge observed that this forecast has been materially changed.

He recalled that the "best estimate" for the beginning of the year of 1929 was $3,750,713,647.

TAILOR NEAR DEATH IN BLAZE AT MARBLEHEAD

Abraham Skover, Marblehead tailor, barely escaped with his life today when he was cut off by flames as he battled single-handed against a fire which destroyed his shop in the Pickett Building, Washington St. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

Skover's son, Samuel, ran to signal for the fire department and a general alarm was sounded and apparatus from Marblehead, Swampscott and Salem responded. The blaze was with difficulty kept from spreading to adjoining buildings.

At one time it appeared that the headquarters of the Marblehead Art Association, storage place for several hundred thousand dollars' worth of paintings and art objects, would be menaced.

The fire started when Skover, senior, lighted a cigarette too near a can of gasoline with which his son was cleaning some uniform he

MONARCH'S FEVER IS HIGHER

London, Dec. 5—An anxious public learned today when a medical bulletin of King George's physicians was issued that the monarch was suffering from renewed activity of the infection in his chest.

Previously an improvement in his condition had been reported, but today's bulletin stated that the monarch "has had a relapse."

There was a measure of relief in the popular mind, however, when it was announced that the monarch was "not so ill as he was a few days ago."

There was nothing specific in the morning bulletin regarding the King's temperature. "Nor was anything said as to how his heart was reacting to the long strain of illness which, it had been strongly reiterated recently, was the vital point upon which the King's chances of recovery from his grave illness rested."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn. and read:

"The King has passed a fair night. There are reasons to hope that the

DUNBAR THREAT TO KILL 'MYSTERY MAN' THRILLS SOCIETY FOLK AT TRIAL

"TALK AND TALK" THRILLS SOCIETY AT DUNBAR TRIAL

Prosecutors exhibited by the post-mortem of the trial yesterday.

Because of their social relations with the family, Mrs. Dunbar having been the daughter of the late Judge Lilly, both Judge John C. Leggat, presiding over the court, and Associate Justice Charles N. Harris refused to hear it. Judge Chief Campbell of Barnstable was assigned, but was away before the supreme court could hold today.

At the opening of court 20 women and 10 men were sworn as witnesses, and at the instance of Atty. General H. Williams, Associate Counsel for Mrs. Dunbar, her husband was also sworn in.

TALK WITH BROTHER

Williams outlined his case briefly and then called Henry P. Dunbar, younger brother of Philip, a teacher of science in the Kingston, N. Y. high school and director of the department of vocational guidance.

Q—Have you affection for your brother? A—I have.

Q—Some two years ago were you on a visit to your brother's home? A—Yes.

Q—Was this after Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar separated? A—Yes.

Q—Did you and your wife accept an invitation to stay overnight at your brother's home? A—Yes, we went there in the evening.

Q—On the morning after you have a conversation at the breakfast table with your brother about his wife? The witness hesitated. Judge Campbell asked: You remember the conversation? You are not guessing at it?

Q—Oh, yes. I recall it. I remember it in substance. My brother described his wife as being a very low individual.

REMAINS NEUTRAL

Q—Did he say anything about remaining on terms of communication with her? A—I don't remember but he said I should take sides with either him or her. He said to remain neutral would be an improper attitude for me to take.

Q—That you declined to take sides, didn't you? A—Yes, I still have to this day.

Q—Have you seen him since then? A—Well, we greeted each other yesterday in the court corridor with a brief "Hello."

Q—Do you consider Mr. Dunbar on the point to be prejudicial or not? Objected to and excluded.

Cross-examination by former Judge Frederic H. Chase, counsel for Mrs. Dunbar.

Q—How much older is Philip than you? A—Ten years, I think.

UNCOMFORTABLE STRIKE

Q—Life has been a good brother to you? A—Exceptionally so.

Q—He is a man of very strong feelings in certain respects? A—Yes.

Q—He is a religious man? A—Yes.

Q—Do you know of any deep religious man? A—No, I don't know of any deep religious man.

Q—And you also know, do you not, his attitude on faithfulness to a matter which is called "the promise"? A—Yes. (Objection overruled.)

Q—The matter of misconduct has been the subject of comment and discussion between you and your brother, hasn't it? A—I don't recall.

The doctors returned to the palace shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon to join for their daily consultation concerning the King's condition.

It was stated that no afternoon bulletin would be issued today, as last night yesterday.

The crowd outside the palace gates today was said to reach easily the words of the morning statement in large black letters when it was posted on a larger bulletin board about 11 o'clock after the doctors had their morning consultation.

Cloody skies and a raw atmosphere did not reduce the flow of the gathering. Throughout the night crowds of people and lines of the neighborhood of the royal residence, as late as 3 a. m., a line of taxicabs and automobiles whose occupants were for tidings of the condition of the ruler stretched the whole length of the pavement in front of the palace.

FLOWERS FOR KING.

One touching incident during the morning was the arrival at the gate of the palace of a young woman armed with a bunch of violets, one of which was labeled "For the King," and the other "For the Queen."

An officer of the gate received the first flowers and passed them on into the palace. There was nothing on the lists to identify the donors.

The order by which the King yesterday created a state council and signed away his authority for the time being was drawn up within his hearing in an audience chamber in his bedroom by the privy council, composed of his principal ministers and advisers.

Mr. William Joseph-Bell, home secretary, stood in the open doorway and read the document. It then passed to the monarch's bedside, behind him the paper and a pen and the sovereign affixed his signature.

OLD LADY HOPE

It was just like the spectre of bad luck that has clung traditionally to families that possessed the famous Hope diamond to find it 20-year-old Lady Doria late, hope across the ocean to play a malicious little joke on her in the hope of her.

Lady Doria, according to a copyrighted story in today's New York American, worked for a week in a department store, having a may adventure in life, until someone who had met her at court had to stroll in and recognize her.

As she is one of the wealthiest of British nobility, naturally her lack had to be kept a secret from her father, who has had trouble enough since once he became owner of the diamond.

And so Lady Doria had to swallow her disappointment, walk right up to the store manager and resign her 33-week job which she had been filling under the perfectly democratic name of Miss Hope.

The Hope diamond, which Lady Doria's father now no longer possesses, was once the admired ornament of May Vols, Boston society, who at present lives quietly in Dorchester.

May Vols was divorced by Lord Hope, who charged her with sleeping with Capt. Putnam Bradley, a former of a former New York mayor.

The actress has remarried and happily, too, but the brilliant gem which she once shadowed her life as it did so many others.

Lady Doria was revealed today, came to Dunbar's aid with her brother in October and visited at the summer home of Mrs. Frederick Brooks, Miss Leonora Elgerton, a friend, was with her.

When the time came for the brother to return to Cambridge for his studies, she and Miss Elgerton went to New York and she took the job as a salesgirl while her brother went to work for an interior decorator—a task that for the British house-lasted but one short, thrilling week.

New York, Dec. 5 (INS)—Final disposition of the Federal district attorney's inquiry into the Yvestis off the Atlantic coast was made today in the Senate.

Chairman Jones of the Senate commerce committee, proposed a resolution of a joint congressional committee to inquire into the disappearance of Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York, asked for a Senate investigation. Both resolutions were referred without discussion to the Senate commerce committee.

New York, Dec. 5 (INS)—An attempt to assassinate General Sessions Judge George Donnellan by a woman (Whitney) Weiss, desperate criminal, was foiled today when Weiss with a gun in his hand in the "bull pen" of the courtroom was shot to death by Capt. John Doyle, in charge of court attendance.

Weiss faced a life term in prison for chronic criminal activity. Morris Frothing, one of his comrades in a recent robbery threatened Judge Donnellan recently when the latter sentenced him to prison.

"You will not live very long," said Frothing.

As Weiss was being led into the courtroom, handcuffed to Court Attendant Leo Kallstrand, he shook a revolver from his trouser leg, stooped and picked it up. Kallstrand and Court Attendant Williams, former war hero, leaped upon the prisoner.

Weiss placed his revolver against Kallstrand's head. As the trigger was pulled, Kallstrand jerked away. The bullet left a burning hole in the side of the judge.

Williams wounding him in the right hand.

Then Doyle came running, shouting from the nip. Weiss leaped and attempted to throw the dagger jammed. Doyle sent a bullet into the criminal's face and another into his heart, killing him instantly.

BOY RESUMES PRIZE FLIGHT

Mercer, Pa., Dec. 5 (INS)—After drifting in getting away from a noisy farm pasture where he was freed down with a broken wing, the boy resumed his flight.

Richard E. James, 17-year-old New York boy, attempting to put the continent for a time, was hopped up at 3 p. m. today by the Philadelphia airport where Forest James, his father, is awaiting him.

James was followed by Martin James, acting as a guide. James flew to assist the boy in preparing his plane with a new propeller raised from Youngsboro, Pa.

400 HARD HIT BY PARKER IN AUTO DRIVE

Continuing his drive to keep in proper automobiles off the highways, Registrar George A. Parker has revoked 400 registrations and declared today that, if necessary, he will call for additional help from the State troopers and from his own department.

At present, there are 100 registry inspectors under his jurisdiction scattered throughout the State checking up on faulty machines. During the day, 40 State troopers are assisting, and at night Capt. Beane of the State police provides 75 of his men for this work.

The registrar declared the intensive drive will be continued without a letup until he is satisfied that State motorists intend to see to it that their machines are properly equipped.

Man, 45, Accused of Abducting Girl, 15
John Wilson, 45, formerly of Boston, was arrested today in New York, charged with abducting Minnie Goff, 15-year-old high school girl of Shawmut ave. Boston police will bring Wilson here for trial. The girl, found with him, will be returned to her parents.

Wilson was a boarder at the Sofie home. On October 11 Minnie went as usual to Girls' Parochial Arts high school, but failed to return. Wilson disappeared the same day.

Deception Island (Antarctica), Dec. 3—(Delayed)—(via Whaler Hektor and Kup—San Francisco Examiner wireless station)—The engine of our Lookheed plane City of Los Angeles, which, with Lieut. Ben Eielson on board, fell through the ice into the sea last Saturday, is in working order again.

It seems to be in perfect condition. New propeller blades have replaced the twisted ones. Two ship's carpenters are at work repairing the hole in the wing and by tomorrow night the machine should be in flying trim.

We shall fly it on pontoons to inspect an island about 50 miles distant and on which there appears to be smooth slopes suitable for landing fields.

Deception Island, Dec. 4—High wind and piercing cold delayed repairs to our airplane today.

Wind-born tears froze to our lashes and noses and finger tips were nipped. We abandoned work, awaiting better weather.

TOM HITCHCOCK TO WED NIECE OF MELLON

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Mellon of this city, is to marry Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., international polo star and World War veteran.

Announcement of the engagement was made by Mr. and Mrs. Mellon, date of the wedding was not announced.

Mrs. Laughlin is the widow of the president of the Central Tube Company, who died in 1926.

She is prominent in society here and in New York and is active in charity work. She is a grand niece of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury.

Hitchcock is best known for his daring polo play. At 28 he is a veteran of four international matches. Since the retirement of Davenox Milburn he has been looked upon as America's greatest player.

Rejected as too young by the American air force during the World War, he joined the Lafayette escadrille.

After bringing down several planes he was forced to land behind the German lines in March, 1918, and was captured. He was 17 years old at the time. Five months later he escaped from his guards on a train near Vim and made his way on foot 100 miles to the Swiss border.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock of Westbury, L. I., and Alton, S. C., both noted for their horsemanship.

Get All They Can Drink—Free

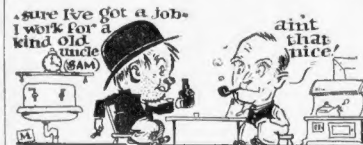

By PATRICK J. COSGROVE

Paradoxical as it may seem in these arid prohibition days, the millennium has arrived in this and other cities for a chosen few of the down-at-heel and out-at-elbow, privileged, at no expense to themselves, to imbibe as openly and as frequently as in the pre-Volstead era.

Social outcasts these, a decade ago, scorned by bartenders as "bums," they have now been raised to the dignity of a Government payroll and as informers for the Federal dry forces enjoy a continuous Bacchanalian feast.

They are seen—and seen—but are never heard. Theirs but to pocket a five dollar bill daily, fare forth on an illicit liquor quest, consume as much of it as their allowance permits and at the end of their tour report, under oath, to their superiors sufficient evidence against a "joint" to warrant a raid.

Tenement district speak-easies are their special prey by virtue of shabby habitation, ready generosity with Government funds and a naive approach to the suspicious guardian of hidden kitchen barrooms. Into these squalid "blind tigers" the white-collared prohibition agent could not gain entrance; nor is he averse to deputizing the duty of sampling their nondescript concoctions to his trusty, intrepid informer.

If every Johnson has his Boswell then every Federal prohibition sleuth has his informer. They are interdependent in the crusade against the ubiquitous small-scale bootlegger. Whatever success is handed down to posterity by the Johnsons of the present dry age will be in no little degree due to the loyalty of their Boswellian aides.

The job of informer on a liquor squad is one of the very few for which character references are unnecessary—unless dry heads recognize the admitted addiction of the candidate to liquor and his success in getting it as his best reference.

He is, however, never asked to undergo the ordeal of taking the witness stand to prove a Government case.

Relegated to the background, the informer stands mute on his affidavit of purchase of liquor through which a raid was carried out and prosecution begun.

What motives impel this group to eke out their parasitic living on the prohibition fat of the land? Are they urged by a desire to wreak vengeance on a traffic, which, to them, has been a curse, or are they drawn into informers' ranks by the lure of easy money and the opportunities for slaking an unquenchable thirst?

Some time ago Government sleuths raided a still in Malden, seized the finished product, dismantled the illicit distillery and set out on a hunt for the operator.

For two months he successfully eluded them. One afternoon he was seen leaving Federal Prohibition headquarters on Franklin st. by a member of the raiding squad. Hailed and interrogated, the fugitive admitted he was on the Government payroll as an informer and, at the same time, was engaged in operating the Malden still.

Did that display of "double-crossing" cost the informer his job? It did not, and he is today back among his fellows at prohibition headquarters—probably "squawking" on a neighbor while again flouting the law himself.

WHEN ALL WAS HAPPY

JAIME DEL RIO AND DOLORES
Now they are 7000 miles apart, while he calls from his dying bed for news of his former wife. Mexican banker is hopelessly ill in Berlin.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1928

Shadow of Death Fans Romance of Dolores

By HARRY BERGMAN, International News Correspondent, Hollywood, Cal. Dec. 4—Cooling embers of a faded romance glowed into renewed life today as Dolores Del Rio, vivacious Mexican screen beauty, clung anxiously to a slender thread of hope that the life of her former husband, Jaime Martinez Del Rio, he feared.

Wounded from long hours of screen loveliness, the film star remained in virtual seclusion at her home, waiting for a message from Berlin that may bring the glad tidings of Jaime Del Rio's victory in his fight against death.

The youthful Mexican author and playwright, who was for seven years the husband of the noted cinema actress, is critically ill in the cinema capital.

DIVORCED LAST APRIL.
Divorced from him last April, Miss Del Rio nevertheless expressed her deep solitude for her former husband's welfare. It was Hollywood and the silver sheet that parted the young couple after seven years of married life. It was illness that reunited them, not in marital bonds, but in the ties of friendship.

"We are still friends," said the dark-eyed actress today. "Only last week I had a long letter from him. In it he told me of the wonderful play about Hollywood that he was writing."

"SO FULL OF DREAMS."
Sorrow-clothed Miss Del Rio's words as she continued: "It is awful to think of him dying. He was so happy, so full of dreams."

From his sick bed the young Mexican writer continually calls for his former wife, according to cable dispatches reaching Miss Del Rio, from Dr. Van Luntz, Del Rio's physician.

Son of an aristocratic Mexican landowning family, Jaime Del Rio had gone to Europe to visit his mother in Spain and to continue his writing career in Paris and other continental centers. His departure for Europe took place shortly after his actress-wife had secured a divorce in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico.

Sensitive to certain aspects of life in the motion picture capital, he fled Hollywood, expressing a profound dislike for the ways of the film colony.

"I am tired of being called 'Mr. Dolores Del Rio,'" he said at the time.

'BOSSY' SEEKS FINDS TO LEAK UP STREETS

Newburyport, Dec. 5.—"Bossy" dolls went back to Salem this morning, but not under the same conditions that kept him confined there for two months on the last visit.

This time, "Bossy" had city business at stake—the business of getting the county commissioners to lend their financial assistance in fixing up several of Newburyport's streets.

"I don't know; I might be asking too much, but I figure we ought to ask for something," little remarked on leaving for the hearing at Salem. We ought to get Parker at least in shape, and Winter at least stand a little widening, and then Mayor and boys like it is ready for improving.

TRAFFIC A JOKE
"Now my administration traffic here was a joke. I don't know anything about my predecessors, only their faults," he added, "but since I've been giving the town a party of publicity traffic was picked up plenty, and we want the streets in good shape for our visitors."

Before leaving, it was revealed that the commissioners had previously supported $2500 to assist in street repair work here, but because there was no money in the city treasury to go with it, the work was not done.

HIGH SPIRITS
"Bossy" went about things this morning with spirits high as a result of the sweeping victory of the candidates for the council. He is just waiting, until the new council is sworn in, and "then waiters see go."

The mayor abandoned his municipal duties this morning to pay tribute to an old friend, John A. McLaughlin, whose funeral was held here today. "Bossy" attended the services before making the trip to Salem.

Assassins Shoot
Pilsudski Guard

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 5 (INS)—Capt. Korymka, commander of Marshal Pilsudski's palace guard, was found dead in the palace garden today, riddled with bullets. Belief exists that there may have been an attempt to assassinate Pilsudski and that Korymka was killed by mistake. A dismissed soldier named Kowalski was arrested, but denied knowledge of the shooting. Marshal Pilsudski, now minister of war, was formerly dictator of the Polish republic.

"Potato Unity" Urged
Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—Cruffed of force of potato growers and shippers toward stabilization of the potato industry is a landmark in the program for farm relief, Chairman E. Dickson, chairman of the Maine Development Commission, told the national potato conference here today. Dickson said that all such relief must come through group methods.

The northern edge of the cold mercury tumbling in the mid-west, is due to hit Greater Boston tonight

That's the story the weather man keep the cold company, there will be a few snow flurries in all proba-

Not only the sailors, but members of the Hoover party and cor-

Christmas shopping in order to get their gifts into "Santa's last

The Maryland's mail has closed in which her sister, Jeannette, was killed, was "holding her own" to-

Miss Chmielinski is suffering from internal injuries. Her name is still on the danger list, but hospital authorities believe she has a chance for recovery.

WILSON TO ASK FOR 100 MORE POLICEMEN

Boston needs at least 100 more police officers, and Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson is going to ask for them, he announced today.

Not so much a rise in crime as the growing difficulty of handling the traffic is believed to be behind the commissioner's determination to increase his force.

Police and fire department circles were a buzz today over the proposed enlargement of police personnel. An organized campaign at present under way to obtain pay raises in 1929 for lieutenants, inspectors and sergeants of police and for captains and lieutenants of the fire department.

With the prospect of the appointment of 100 new policemen, all to be equipped at a minimum cost of $20,000 and to be paid at a minimum cost of $10,000 a year, chances of the long-awaited raise for superior officers seem to go aglimmering.

City Hall's opinion is that Mayor Nichols will turn an ear that is slightly hard of hearing toward Commissioner Wilson's request.

MISS ABBY BEVERIDGE QUILTS HUB FOR CHICAGO—BETTY ALDEN

Plans to Take Part in Much of the Debutante Activity in the Windy City This Winter

TEMPORARILY MISS ABBY BEVERIDGE LEAVES BOSTON SWAINS asishing while she disports amid debutante protuberances as they flare and splinter for Chicago's Just Out set. Having a coming out here and then going Westward to curtsy before Windy City Big Wigs doubles the first winter thrills for the blonde and lissom Miss Beveridge, who cuts a wide swath of popularity wherever she goes. Hearts of Chicago's gilded youth will go pitter-patter these many days while the lovely intercity belle is being feted by Chicago's Upper Tensum. She is a distracting young thing, is Miss Beveridge.

SO RAVISHING A BUD SHOULD HAVE THE MOST PERFECT OF coming-out parties. Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson are the gods of the machine to accomplish this desired end. They have cards out to choose some of Chicago's younger set for the evening of December 20, when at the Casino they will present Miss Beveridge formally at a smart dinner dance. This evening Miss Beveridge glints brightly in the debutante limelight, sharing that enviable center place with Miss Betty Borden and Miss Inez de Soriano, as Mrs. Walter Borden entertains at a dinner dance, a formal plain high favorite with Chicagoans of place in the fashionable scheme.

THE BEVERIDGE AURA ALSO OVERLAYS A DEC. 11 OCCASION, a dinner dance at the Casino, with Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins hosts for Miss Mary Elizabeth Johnston and Miss Beveridge. Mr. Albert J. Beveridge, mater to Miss Abby, and widow of the late Senator, is not giving her debutante daughter the gay introduction to society considered youth's rightful measure, so long time friends and dotting relatives step into the breach made by bereavement and do the launching superbly. Robert H. Alorton and Frederick C. Bartlett give a ball at the Arts Club for Miss Beveridge and Miss Bertha Palmer and so add a joyous strain to the gay bud symphony.

FOUR DELECTABLE BUDS IN THE DEBUTANTE GARDEN ARE Miss Beveridge, Miss Palmer, Miss de Soriano and Miss Borden. Chicago pioneers and social leaders were their forebears. Miss Palmer is a sprig on the Potter Palmer family tree, which has leaves inscribed with names that lend fame to Chicago's social, aesthetic and commercial past and present. Miss Beveridge bears the given name of her maternal grandparent, the late Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy, a charming woman and famous hostess two or three decades back. Miss de Soriano had for grandparent the late Chauncey Blair and for great-grandparent William Mitchell, and for mater the lovely Miss Italia Blair.

THE BLAIR-DE SORIANO ALLIANCE GAVE THE CHICAGO BEAUTY a scion of a great Spanish family for husband, Ricardo de Soriano, son of the Marquis de Ivarroy. Miss Inez is the present generation of this will be in Chicago a month or more, just as the pace of the debutante thrives swings into its most brilliant winter tempo.

LOCALLY, THE DEBUTANTE takes her fling at the Casino, where the dance this evening at the Copley-Plaza. Miss Maria Brown and Miss Mary Vance are the hostesses for the evening. The dance is the usual round of dinners, Mr. and Mrs. Brown's at the Copley-Plaza is for the usher troupe. Mrs. John D. Ellsworth entertains at dinner for her debutante daughter, Miss Phyllis Ellsworth, and Mrs. Henry Bigelow does a Chilton Club affair for Miss Cora Lyman. Of the town's youthful feminine elite are Miss Vance and Miss Brown, that circle being defined by Vincent Club and Junior League membership, and both girls having received the coveted invitation to belong thereto.

THE CLAN OF SPRAGUE rallies also its debutante of the season, so gay and so popular, Miss Sally Sprague, and elevate her comeliest ball on Friday to the realm of magnificence. It will be the sort of occasion when the younglings throng the ballroom floor and dance hour on hour, long after the downpour has cooled element has taken a belated departure. Mr. and Mrs. Phineas W. Sprague entertain in honor of the labor squad at their Commonwealth ave. home, and Mrs. Phineas Shaw Sprague (Lucy Sprague) also entertain, while Mrs. Daniel Simonds, 24 (Elizabeth Sprague), does the dinner honors for Miss Virginia Oakes and George Huganion.

IT IS CONSIDERED THAT SO brilliant a star as August Entlers, and so brilliant a patroness list for Talitha Cumi! Home beauties and feathers in the cap of managing committee. Interest in the Entlers' appearance of Friday at the Hotel Statler rolls up like the snowfall—and smart and interesting people continue to have their names enrolled on the list of those who gallantly sponsor the cause and the matinee. Mesdames Charles R. Adams, Robert Whitman, Atkinson, George B. Baker, John W. Barlow, George W. Bliss, John S. Bell, George E. Cabot, Edgar R. Champlin, Henry G. Clark and Robert Clark are therein contained.

THE LIST CONTINUES brilliantly with the names of Mrs. Edric Edridge, Mrs. George E. Hill, Mrs. William H. S. Lohrop, Mrs. Charles A. Proctor, Mrs. Neal Randall, Mrs. Arthur Perry, Mrs. Oliver W. Mink, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw Mosher, Mrs. William McElwain, Miss Mabel Lyman, Mrs. Louis B. Harding, Mrs. Eldon MacLeod, Mrs. Harriet E. Fraser, Mrs. James G. Foss, Mrs. Hancock Davis, the Misses Day, Miss Phoebe Edwards, Miss Suzanne Dabney, Miss Margaret L. Corlies, Mrs. Kuno Franke and Mrs. Castello C. Converse. Miss Entlers is a fine drawing card, her benefit woven around her personality will be a huge success.

Brahms Feature in Pianist's Program

Weldon Carter, pianist, who is also president of the Washington, D. C., College of Music, gave a recital in Steinert Hall yesterday afternoon. Although his program was not flashy, containing nothing that was unfamiliar, it was representative of many schools of music. A Haydn concerto and Variations in B-flat major was the first number. Then came a Brahms Intermezzo in C major, the Chopin F minor Fantasia piece by Borodin, Rachmaninoff, Debussy and Liszt. The pianist, who displayed an excellent technique, appeared to be of the solid, scholarly type of musician rather than of the poetic. He was heard to best advantage in the Scarlatti and Brahms numbers.

APOLLO CLUB IN FRENCHMEN IN NEW CHORAL TRIUMPH HUB TO AID WAR MEMORIAL

By MOSES SMITH
The Apollo Club, Boston's male choral organization, does well to solicit the patronage of the general public. Presenting a varied program at Jordan Hall it attracted a large audience, which showed evidence of pleasure by frequent and long applause.

The organization is also fortunate in its conductor, Thompson Stone, who took charge of its affairs last year. He has revitalized the chorus so that it now sings with freedom, knows the meaning of a well-timed phrase, and can achieve a climax that thrills the listener. By the type of singing it made several pieces which were given early in the program, sound better than they were before. The magnificent composition "Some from Monsieu-sky" a "Boris Godunov" was especially well sung.

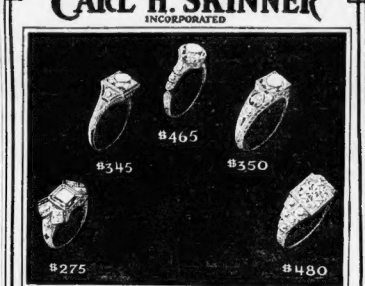

The assisting soloist was Mrs. Olga Avierino, local Russian soprano, who sang parts in several pieces with the club, and also a group of songs in Russian and French. Mrs. Avierino has a beautiful voice, which only occasionally displays a hard quality. It is apparently very well used. Though she can achieve remarkable dramatic effects with this voice, she possesses as well a splendid coloratura technique, none of the auctors we have ever heard.

Thus the Laughing Song from "Auber's" "Monsieu" was a triumph of virtuosity, with trills at rare intervals as those of a flute or violin. It is rather a big voice, too, for work of this type, so that it can be employed for comparatively large volume without sacrificing quality. The audience received the singer most enthusiastically.

'Farming Youth' Wins Out of 44 States

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—Not flaming hot farming youth was a broad, good natured, old fashioned grin today. It had his hair; and such an air.

A sign of a lad, only 12 years old, had come up from State Center, Ill., to the International Livestock Exposition to win the Grand Championship, the most important event, with his pet yearling Hereford steer, Duke.

Gray-haired stockmen still were gazing over this demonstration of what farming youth can do, when two other youngsters from the wide world.

25 DROPE' RINGS OPERATING IN U. S. NOW

Washington, Dec. 5.—Estimating that there are about 25 narcotic drug smuggling syndicates operating in this country, L. G. Nutt, deputy commissioner in charge of narcotic law enforcement, at hearings before a House appropriations sub-committee on the Treasury report.

"This man recently killed in New York was financing some of them."

"He was financing them and we know he had plenty of money."

Nutt also questioned regarding a $100,000 increase in appropriations for the purchase of evidence in enforcing the Harrison narcotic act.

"He did not name the man 'killed in New York.' He declared that if one of the drug smuggling syndicates was not out of business that another would start."

100,000 ADDICTS
"Somebody will finance these fellows," he said, "in New York that old financier who was killed was one of them."

Nutt estimated there were 100,000 narcotic addicts in the United States and that their source of supply was the smuggled drug.

"That is established largely," he said, "by the fact that we are catching very few of the legitimate dealers violating the law."

Reports that some dealers sell their illicit wares to school children in some cities were unfounded, Nutt said. He added that such reports were recently run down in the national capital and in the West and were found to be untrue.

SUSPECT ROYALTY
For some months before he was killed, federal officials had been investigating reports connecting Arnold Rothstein with the illegal narcotic trade. Rothstein was generally believed by officials here to be the man referred to today by Assistant United States Attorney John M. Egan.

Egan says that up to the present time, his investigation, which is still going on before a federal grand jury, has established that Rothstein was associated with Frank Yale, George J. Goetz and Tony Marino.

Attention of federal officials charged with watching for infractions of the narcotic laws was first drawn to Rothstein, according to Blake, by the frequency with which he appeared as a defendant or co-defendant for the bond of men accused of traffic in narcotics.

Blake said that Rothstein's influence in the narcotic "market" had apparently been great and had been evidenced in so many directions that it was difficult to conceive his scope.

He said his investigation so far indicated existence of an international syndicate with connections in France, China, Germany and throughout the United States.

U. S. Envoy Wilson
on Arms Curb Board

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 5 (AP)—A special commission investigating agreement of control of manufacturing of arms and war material opened today under the presidency of Count von Bernstorff of Germany.

A committee to meet privately for an accord on a draft convention was appointed, with J. Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador as chairman. Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, is one of the members.

Von Bernstorff said today Germany believes sub-committees, including one of naval experts of the five great naval powers, should meet to discuss disarmament questions.

18 Gunmen Nabbed In Executive Session In Cleveland

Cleveland, Dec. 5 (AP)—Eighteen alleged gunmen and racketeers from Chicago, Buffalo and New York were seized in a raid on a downtown hotel today led by Acting Chief of Detectives Felt.

All available detective reserves were sent to the hotel where Detective Lieutenant Kurt Glockner reported there was a "whole mob" of known gunmen in the place and asked for assistance.

Police said they believed the gang had gathered for an "executive session" to plan a racket on a killing. Guns were found on nearly all the gangsters.

BROKEN FREED TO WED AGAIN

On the day that the divorce from a first wife became absolute, Charles Malcolm Adams, 39, of Dorchester, at stock exchange today declared intentions to marry again.

This was revealed when Adams, Mrs. Ada E. Lunt, 35, of Chestnut Hill, Brighton, a divorcee, appeared before Judge Michael J. Barry in the municipal court seeking a waiver of the five-day law.

He explained that they had prepared for the ceremony yesterday, but because Adams' wife did not become final until today, he was unable to file the return.

The judge granted his request. Adams has been associated with brother, L. Sherman Adams, many years.

10 BARGAINS IN BOOK FINES

Fatch and Ward Society agents, today recommended a reduction from $100 to $10 in the fine levied on Harry Carter of the West End for selling improper books. They treated with little consideration by Judge Fiedel of Superior Court and District Police, and Mayor's Vision of $500 saved van.

These men prosecuted this case at the lower court and obtained a fine of $100, but for some reason they have lost their enthusiasm in the court and have agreed to a fine of $10 on the appealed case, said a district attorney.

"I insist on lower court fine, unless Carter intends to stand trial," Judge Fiedel gave Carter until 10 o'clock to decide what he will do at the suggestion of a reduced fine was made.

Henry Dickson Killed by an Auto in Dublin

Dublin, Dec. 5 (AP)—Henry Dickson, 31, one of the most prominent publishers in Ireland, was struck by a motor car and killed in front of his office today.

He was active in the Sinn Féin organization and was arrested for his part in the 1916 movement and sentenced to a term of imprisonment.

DRY HEAD SAYS BIG CITIES FAIL TO BACK LAW

Washington, Dec. 5 (INS)—The States of New York and Maryland and the police departments of many big cities are doing little or nothing to aid dry law enforcement, prohibiting Commissioner J. M. Doran declared before the House appropriates committee in testimony made public today.

The cities of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit were named by Mr. Doran as troublesome wet spots.

The testimony was given to the committee to aid in training prohibition department appropriations for the fiscal year 1924. The committee in reporting the Treasury Supply bill, recommended more than $25,000,000 for dry law enforcement in 1924, a slight increase over the present year.

A total of $12,500,000 was proposed for the bureau of prohibition as compared to $12,725,140 last year, the increase being due chiefly to the Welch salary increase bill.

Most of the $12,500,000 was proposed for coast guard anti-smuggling.

New York, Maryland, Montana and Nevada are the only states without state enforcement acts, Mr. Doran pointed out to the committee.

In New York, state inspectors cooperate, but the federal courts alone can't handle all the cases, he said.

'BOY BURGLAR' IN 3 MORE JOBS

Quincy's "brief case burglar," the hawking Beau Brummel who saunters in and out of apartment houses in broad daylight leaving a trail of broken glass, chalked up three more successes on his score card today.

Terrence Mallory, Matthew Oit and Fred Beane, all of Kemper st., reported police their score had been padded. Mallory took $200, Oit lost only some jewelry, Beane lost a $25 stickpin and a new brief case.

Detectives figure that the rascal is planning to discard his own old gear and use Beane's for a change.

Giving Jewelry for Coupons Is Taxable

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Concerns giving away jewelry to consumers for exchanging used with its products have been adjudged taxable in exchange in jewelry by the United States Court of Claims, in a test case involving $15,734 assessed against Colgate & Company.

In the Colgate case, it was shown that Colgate was being expended annually in each of about 50 stores on the coupon premium distribution and redemption system.

Rudolph Gets $1266 From Minor Club

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 5 (AP)—With every indication pointing to defeat of proposed amendments to the law governing the draft or selection of baseball players for promotion from the minors to the majors, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues today were prepared to meet in annual convention.

Even the most optimistic partisans of the proposed amendments are in a state of despair for their survival.

Standing out for the draft collection as assured, graduates and managers of scores of minor league clubs turned to talk of strikes. Few trades were made, but there were some.

EVANS HIS FITTER
One major league club reached out for a minor league prospect when Billy Evans, business manager of the Cleveland club, closed a deal with a City for the purchase of Zim Zim, a pitcher who had a trial at the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1922.

Zim, Cleveland agreed to part with an unannounced sum of money and two players. George Green, an outfielder, will be sent to the minors, while the other is to be named later.

Before the members of the National Board of Arbitration, the players' union, in the interest of the convention the base ball court cleaned up a number of Cole and Strong were almost unstoppable but with a player of the class of Murphy, the team would be even more potent.

Talking to the line, Stone of Princeton again held the field at the end of the year. How he is to be the team's mainstay in the college ranks but for some unknown reason, he was not named.

OH, YOU KNOW, MISS BROWN,
IT GOES ON THE END OF YA FELLER'S LETTER

M. B.

A little time by such a white rose
 Here,
 Faint words of faintest memories
 Of moonlit smiles and lovers' eyes
 Across its heart spilled blood and
 Here,
 It tells you how I loved her,
 Where late morning dew shone
 crystalline
 Yet, from this broken loveliness
 That comes in the Summer's calms,
 And how the winds their love sang

Ma: "Are you going to normal
Ruth: "No, college of liberal art
Marg: "No, I'm not"
